for infrastructure improvements, ranging from water treatment to sidewalk construction.
The majority of Brookhaven's projects concern infrastructure upgrades such as stormwater drains, sidewalks and sewage treatment systems,

Towns also have earmarked good portions of their funding toward recreational pursuits, from playgrounds and pickleball courts to other park improvements.

Most towns have sprinkled their ARPA money across capital projects ranging from roadwork to park improvements, along with programming and service-related funding, such as for local nonprofits. Huntington took a different approach, budgeting the whole pot of its $22.2 million toward one project: a new sewer system

Funds for turf fields, zip line

In Islip, nearly $7.7 million will be used for new turf fields and $125,000 is going toward the creation of a playground zip line at Anthony Casamento Park in Bay Shore.

“It’s been one of the positives that came out of COVID,” Islip Town Supervisor Angie Carpenter said. “These are things that normally might have taken us years to scrape up the funding for, and we were able to do it a lot, lot faster than we normally would have been able to.”

WHEREAS, the Town of Islip, in the County of Suffolk, New York (herein called the "Town"), has heretofore issued on September 10, 2013 its $17,230,000 Public Improvement Serial Bonds-2013 (the "2013 Bonds"), which are currently outstanding in the principal amount of $6,490,000 (the "Outstanding Bonds"), and mature on March 1 in each of the years and in the principal amounts and bear interest payable March 1 and September 1 in each year until maturity, as follows:
